

Subject: Q and A

Topic: Redirect page with ajax

Redirect page with ajax

Posted by: EyeKeeper

Posted on: : 1200944794

URL:

Hey there

I'm trying to get rid of the redirect page or at least be able to use one that allows me to use ajax to reload a div after data has been inserted....

First, I tried using the default redirect_header function from XOOPS but since I adapted the whole admin interface to use ajax every time I use the redirect_header function it reloads the whole page and, consequently, it get some errors 'cause it should be loaded into the div and not the whole page itself.

I know the header function has to reload the whole page and then I started looking over here to get a workaround and came to this link --> Show XOOPS redirect page messages in theme - Xoops-magazine.com.

But I couldn't get this running either on my XOOPS version.

I'm currently running XOOPS Brasil version and the lines to be changed are different and some non-existent.

Is there a way to recreate a new redirect page or having after the insertion some auto-reload function for the div? I wanted just to get the page loaded somehow... I've already looked for two days over google and found bunches of links and suggestions but I couldn't get any to work!

Thanks for any help.